DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-5 of U.S. Patent No. 6,239,253. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, the method claims 7 and 8 fail to incorporate the requirement that each of the different surfactants is anionic. The patented claims call for the use of different surfactants and these surfactants are presumed to possess properties that render obvious those as claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1713

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tanaka et al. US Patents 6,239,253.

The record has well established that the scope and content of the cited art is that of treating natural rubber latex compositions so as to produce deproteinized natural rubber latex. Applicants have argued that the claimed combination of surfactants renders the instantly claimed invention patentable over the prior art cited. This is not persuasive.

Art Unit: 1713

The method claims 7 and 8 fail to incorporate the requirement that each of the different surfactants is anionic. The difference between the claimed invention and the teaching of the prior art is that the art fails to show the use of the combination of surfactants as claimed. The patent instructs one to select a combination of surfactants which are presumed to possess properties which render obvious those as claimed, see column 7, lines 18+. One of ordinary skill would be motivated to use the combination of surfactants as claimed.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The examiner has found persuasive the rationale advanced by applicants that the claimed product is patentably distinct from that of the art. The showing in the specification at tables 3-9 show the improved film forming properties possessed by the product when the anionic surfactants having different coagulation properties are used. The art fails to show or suggest the claimed combination.

7. The rejections over Tanaka et al. US 5,910,567 and 5,610,212 are withdrawn for the reasons advanced by applicants.

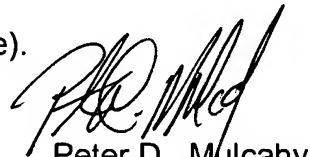

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
